EMILY ANDREWS

Leadership Development Advisor

BIOGRAPHY //

To say Emily is passionate about teaching is an understatement. She thrives on being part of a team that values building relationships and growing a positive, collaborative culture. Her passion extends to developing and implementing processes that help empower others to achieve great things.

Emily was born and raised in Dallas, Texas, and graduated from Texas A&M University with degrees in biology and chemistry. She began her teaching experience at Highland Park High School, but soon moved with her family to Colorado, working for 15 years with high school and middle school students in Academy School District 20.

Emily earned a master's degree in curriculum and instruction from the University of Colorado and a gifted education endorsement through the Colorado Department of Education. She also received her educational leadership credentials through Denver University. Currently, she is on the Process Champions™ team for the Colorado Preparatory Academy and is implementing Capturing Kids' Hearts® in the online school environment.

Emily and her husband, Jason, reside in Fort Collins, Colorado. They can be found enjoying all the outdoor activities that living in Colorado provides.
