Leadership Development Strategist

BIOGRAPHY //

We each travel a different path to get to the same place in teaching. George Jacobus was born and raised in Dallas, TX and has spent 15 years working with kids. Beginning in 1998 as an intern at his church and eventually moving to the classroom, George has had the opportunity to influence thousands of students. In his role at the Flippen Group, and throughout his career, George's goal is to equip the next generation to be trustworthy leaders. His passion is helping people reach their full potential so they can lead their sphere of influence well.

George joined the Flippen group in 2016 to help launch LeadWorthy, a leadership initiative designed for high school students. He is excited about teaching students essential leadership and life principles as they go through some of their most formative years.

George enjoys spending time with his family, mentoring students, watching Aggie football and learning. He and his wife, Lindsay, live in College Station, TX with their 4 children: Brooke, Hudson, Hallie, and Claire. ■
